Sydney Anderson's Home Scene of Great Demonstration for Successor to J. A. Tawney

BOSSHARD IN GREAT SPEECH

Candidate Follows LaCrosse Orator in Talk that Appealed to His Hearers Deeply

What may have been planned as a celebration of the nomination of Sydney Anderson for congressman in the First Minnesota district at LaCrosse yesterday became a republican ratification of the primary. The meeting was attended by leaders and publishers who have been prominent in their support of James A. Tawney, the defeated candidate. They were there to assure Candidate Anderson of their loyal support.

Notable among these men was Scott Laird, publisher of the Winona Republican-Herald, formerly owned by Mr. Tawney, and up to the hour of his defeat the organ through which he gave expression to his political views. Mr. Laird made a speech pledging the support of his paper to Anderson.

Great Throng Gathers

An immense crowd of people gathered in LaCrosse for this fete day. From La Crosse there was a party headed by Otto Boshard, who made the principal speech of the day, and trains from both directions were crowded with excursionists. The LaCrosse band met the visitors at the depot and Sydney Anderson was at the depot to welcome them. After dinner at the hotel a procession proceeded to the city park, where speech making was indulged in and the crowd delightedly cheered every reference to Anderson, to La Follette and to Roosevelt.

Boshard Impresses Hearers

Mr. Boshard made a deep impression upon his listeners, concluding a lucid presentation of the progressive cause and what it means with a characterization of Mr. Anderson as he has come to know him. Mr. Boshard told the candidate's fellow townsmen that nowhere among the young leaders of the progressive cause have sprung into prominence during the insurgent movement has he become acquainted with one who has shown more efficiency in the present or who gives greater promise for the future than Mr. Anderson. Needless to say this sentiment was enthusiastically applauded.

Able Speakers There

Among the speakers were T. G. Beiden, of Austin, editor of The Transcript, familiarly known throughout the northwest as Farmer Ben on account of a clever column run in his newspaper under that caption and widely copied in Minnesota journals. Mr. Beiden made two splendid addresses, one in the afternoon and one in the evening and created a deep impression. Geo. Andrus of Chaffee, A. W. Thompson of Preston, Senator S. A. Nelson of LaCrosse, R. L. Johnson of Austin, and Scott Laird of Winona, made clever speeches and were received with applause. Hon. N. Scanlon, a LaCrosse financier, presided over the meeting and created considerable amusement by his happy references to the various speakers.

Anderson Makes Hit

The meeting reached a climax of enthusiasm when Sydney Anderson was called upon. His youth is apparent, but he proved himself invulnerable to youth's relation. A modest dignity characterized his attitude, and his expression of gratitude for the support given him by

TELLS OF MURDER TO GET REVENGE

Office Assistant of San Francisco Physician Tells Police Location of Body

CRIPPEN CASE PARALLELED

Corpse of School Teacher Found Buried Under the Floor and Physician Is Arrested

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 24.—Dr. James Grant and Marie Messerschmidt, a nurse, under arrest on suspicion of connection with the death of Eva Swan, 26, the Paso Robles teacher, whose body was found buried under a vacant house here, today refused to make any public statement or throw any light on the case. The police declare that the girl was murdered, that she was put out of the way to shield someone else and they are searching for a ranchman of Paso Robles who is said to have been a close acquaintance of the girl. The case in many respects parallels the famous Crippen case. The girl vanished suddenly on April 20 last, shortly before an unknown youth called at the boarding house where she stayed and left a note for her. The contents of the note is said to be known to the police. That the girl's leave taking was not contemplated was evident from the fact that none of her effects was disturbed.

Office Assistant Tells

Ever since her disappearance, friends have been searching for her but in vain until Tuesday when Ben Gordon, recently employed by Dr. Grant as office assistant notified the police that he believed Miss Swan was dead and that her body had been buried under the floor of a vacant house. A search was made and late last night the corpse was found. The body was wrapped in a sheet and quantities of nitric acid had been poured over it. The board floor and a portion of the cement floor of the house had been removed and the corpse buried deep, the flooring being replaced. It was evident from the condition of the body that it had been under the ground for several months.

On information furnished by Gordon, the police arrested Dr. Grant and Miss Messerschmidt. Gordon declared that William Saacks, his predecessor in Grant's office, had told him that Miss Swan died on April 20 as the result of an operation and that he (Saacks) had helped to bury her. The police have put out a drag net for Saacks, who has not been seen since Gordon was employed by Dr. Grant.

Found Bloody Trunk

Two months ago the house where the body was found was occupied by a family named Creighton, who found an ill-smelling trunk in the house. They notified the city authorities and the city chemist examined the trunk reporting that it had evidently been newly painted. The trunk had many red stains in it and it is now believed that these were made by human blood and that the trunk was used to bear Miss Swan's body to the place where it was buried.

Identity Not Certain

While the police are sure the body is that of Eva Swan they admit they have not positively identified it. They base their announcements on the story of Gordon who told them that was the girl's name, and accurately described the place where the body was buried. The searchers found Gordon's story correct in detail.

According to Gordon, the girl died as the result of an illegal operation. Gordon also said the physician owed him $18 and that he told his story to the police to get even.

Dr. Grant has been in San Francisco about a year. He is said to have come from St. Louis but the police believe he formerly practiced in Boston under another name.

HARMON ATTACKS OHIO REPUBLICANS

CANTON, O., Sept. 24.—In the opening speech of his campaign for re-election, Gov. Judson Harmon today attacked the republican organization of Ohio for standing pat against state reforms. The governor accused the republican organization of permitting, tolerating and profiting by the political and financial exploitation of the state government and appealed to republican as well as democratic voters to "sweep them out," and permit the democrats to "clean house."

CRAZED FROM OVERWORK, HE SUICIDES

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Crazed from overwork, E. J. McKillop, assistant superintendent of machinery of the Illinois Central railroad, today threw himself from a second story window of his home and was instantly killed. For some time past McKillop had been studying over some inventions he was working upon and two days ago gave up work a nervous wreck.

ARE YOU TAGGED? IF NOT WHY NOT?

"Tag Day" Is Proving to Be a Great Success in La Crosse Today

"Have you been tagged?"

This is the question that is being asked today and before 6:30 o'clock this evening it is expected that everyone, who has had occasion to be down town will have been one of the contributors to the fund that is being raised today for the employment of a visiting nurse in La Crosse. "Tag day" was inaugurated by the Humane society and a thorough campaign is in progress today, which promises to be a big success.

Two hundred women and girls are at work taking contributions from La Crosse people and no one is allowed to escape. The campaign is being conducted by Miss Gertrude Hogan, who is making her headquarters at the Y. M. C. A. building and so well organized is the work that every part of the city will be covered. Every street corner in the business section of the city is filled with young ladies with handfuls of red tags and a small box in which the contributions are deposited. There is no limit to the amount given. All amounts are acceptable, from a quarter upward and it is said that many citizens have deposited as high as $10 besides smaller amounts.

A Much Tagged Individual

"I have been tagged early and often," said one prominent citizen when stopped by a leading society lady on the corner of Fourth and Main streets. This same gentleman had about a dozen tags tied in the button hole of his coat and still the young ladies whom he had not met were stopping him. This only goes to show that there is no limit to the number of times that one person is allowed to contribute. Don't think that because you have a tag that you are barred from contributing again.

Even with 200 young ladies working, it was reported that more help can be used and any girls who desire to enter the charitable work may get a supply of tags and get busy between now and 6:30 o'clock this evening, when the campaign closes.

Visit the City Hall

So well has the work been laid out that every hotel, public building, factory and business place is being covered. This morning while the democratic county committee was in session in the small council chamber of the city hall, the session was called to a halt until one of the workers could make the rounds of the delegates. She was afterward escorted through the building by Mayor Sorensen, who allowed no one to escape.

Fourth and Main streets was one of the busy places for the workers. About a dozen girls were stationed at the corner and passengers as they left the street cars were stopped and everyone who came along was tagged. There is no use trying to make excuses. Excuses don't go. Unless you have the red tag in plain sight you must contribute. The old story of having a tag at the office is no excuse at all and a worker is justified in demanding proof.

Traveling Men Help

Traveling men, who happened to be in the city, immediately fell into line and boosted for the visiting nurse. All the hotels were visited and everyone who arrives in the city this evening will be called upon at the hotels before the time comes for closing the campaign. At the Standard hotel several girls were kept busy. They visited all departments of

AUTO DASHES INTO CANAL; SIX KILLED

Early Morning "Joy Ride" at New Orleans, Following a Merry Night, Is Fatal

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 24.—Beneath a heavy touring car under fifteen feet of water in the New Basin canal, near here, lie the bodies of a man and two young girls. In a city morgue are the bodies of two men and another girl removed from the waters of the canal.

The six deaths are the result of a night of merriment and an early morning joy ride of a traveling salesman, with two men companions and three chorus girls from the "The Queen of the Moulin Rouge" playing at the Shubert theater here.

The accident occurred at 3 o'clock this morning when the automobile flying along the edge of the canal at a whirlwind pace, as the party returned from a West End resort, suddenly plunged into space and whirled over into and under the water of the canal.

The car's six occupants were pinned under the machine and drowned without a fighting chance for life. The bodies already recovered are those of Thomas Boelter of New Orleans, owner and driver of the machine; John Freeman, traveling representative of Laelle Daly & Co., a New York perfumery concern; and an unidentified girl, about 22 years of age.

The touring car will be raised by a canal dredging boat, it being too heavy to be moved by workmen. The three bodies in the morgue were recovered by divers. The names of the girls will probably not be known until the roll call at the theater where the company is playing.

Miss Marion Gibbons, one of the three chorus girls victims in today's automobile accident, was a resident of East St. Louis, Ill., according to personal effects found in her room here.

The body of the first young woman recovered from the canal was this afternoon identified as that of Miss Marion Gibbons, registered at the Bush hotel here. A second of the three women drowned has been recovered and identified as Miss Daisy Hawkins, a resident of New Orleans.

SIX KILLED, 12 HURT IN CRASH

Another of the Series of Traction Accidents Due to Mistaken Train Orders

TIPTON, Ind., Sept. 24.—Six persons were killed and twelve injured in a collision between a southbound freight car and the northbound limited train on the Indiana Union Traction Company's line at noon today. The cars crashed together at the Resler's Crossing, two miles north of Tipton, under circumstances almost identical with the tragic wreck near Bluffton on Wednesday.

The dead are: Mortimer Baker, Tipton, Ind.; R. J. Welsh, traveling man, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Dr. H. Hostzhauser, Brooklyn, N. Y., who was on his way to marry Nellie Coxon, Tipton; W. H. Hostzhauser, brother of the physician; Vernal Ralisch, Hymera, Ind.; Louis Broo, Kokomo, Ind.

A clump of trees hit the approaching cars and they came together at a curve. The freight trains plowed through the front end of the limited, demolishing the smoke.

The motor man had orders to wait at the first stop north of the crossing but over ran that point, thinking he could make another switch and ran into the northbound limited, which was in charge of Joseph Baker, motorman, and Edward Harrison, conductor.

A sad feature of the disaster is the fact that Dr. Hostzhauser was on his way here to be married tonight to Nellie Coxon, daughter of H. Coxon, owner of the Coxon Pottery Works and a prominent citizen of this city.

His brother was accompanying him and was to act as best man at the wedding.

Partial list of the injured includes Carl W. Grace, troop 1, sixth U. S. Cavalry, Fort Harrison, injured about the head and face.
Mrs. T. A. Moore, Elwood, knee and nose hurt; W. W. Lundy, traveling salesman, Fort Wayne, arm and leg broken; Belle Johns, Greenwood, face and arm injured; J. W. Montgomery, Elwood, face and head cut; Mrs. J. W. Montgomery, Elwood, skull fractured; George Borden, Arcadia, Ind.; Mrs. George Borden, Arcadia, Ind.; Mrs. Borden, infant son, Arcadia, Ind.; A. G. Curtis, Indianapolis; Mrs. A. G. Curtis, Indianapolis; Joe P. Hogan, Indianapolis; Vinson Van Briggle, Sharpville, Ind.; Mrs. Marietta Hutchings, Alexandria, Ind.; J. W. ## INVALID'S WIFE AND LOVER SLAIN

Husband Hears Shot After Retiring and Both Are Found Dead in the Woman's Room

MURDERER HEARD RUNNING

Powder Marks on Body Indicate Fatal Shots were Fired at Short Range

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 24.—Mrs. Martha H. Distel, 42, and Paul Mueller, 35, a mail carrier, were found murdered this morning in her bedroom.

Police were called by Lawrence Distel, the woman's husband, who is a special officer at the Society for Savings bank.

Distel and his son, Irving, 20, and his daughter, Genevieve, 18, were sleeping in other rooms on the floor. They all heard the shots.

The police found Mrs. Distel and Mueller lying side by side on the floor. Each had been shot through the heart. A 32 calibre revolver was found in a corner of the room. All of its chambers were empty.

The police think the person who fired the shots stood only a few feet from the victims for there were signs of powder marks on the bodies.

Found Two Bodies

Distel told the lieutenant of detectives, Walker: "I was sleeping in my room when I heard shots. I ran to my wife's room and found her and Mueller lying on the floor. Both had been shot. A moment later my son and daughter came into the room. Then I called the police."

Distel, owing to ill health, has been sleeping in a tent in his back yard. Last night was the first in several months he had slept in the house.

"My wife seemed in the very best of spirits last night," Distel said. "We sat on the porch together until late and discussed taking a trip west. Feeling tired, I went to bed. Later I heard her go up stairs."

Distel said he did not believe his son, Irving, 21, was at the home when the parents retired about midnight. "I think my son came in a little later," said the husband.

Genevieve Distel fainted several times while the police were questioning her.

"I thought nothing of the shot," said she, "until I heard a woman scream, then I heard another. I called my father and brother. While calling, I heard some one run down the hallway."

Believe Woman Did Shooting

The police this afternoon abandoned the theory of murder for that of murder and suicide.

Despite Coroner Boesger's declaration that the location of the wounds almost positively sets at naught the theory of murder and suicide and the fact that the body of the man was nude and Mrs. Distel clad only in a kimono, the police adhere to the theory that Mrs. Distel shot Mueller and then committed suicide, throwing the revolver into a far corner of the room.

DENEEN SEEKS TO SUCCEED CULLOM

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 24.—That United States Senator Shelby M. Cullom, "the grand old man of Illinois," has served his last term in the upper house and that Governor Charles S. Deneen will be Cullom's successor, is believed by politicians to have been clearly forecasted in the republican convention here yesterday when the plank endorsing Cullom was taken from the platform at the last minute.

As adopted the platform makes no mention of Cullom and today his followers confess they see the handwriting on the wall. Gov. Deneen declares that the plank was stricken out at Cullom's request but the aged senator did not attend the convention. He remained in his room at the hotel. It was the first time he had ever absent himself from a convention in his long term of service and the first convention failing to commend him.

It is admitted that Deneen is in complete control in Illinois as was clearly indicated yesterday by the way every Deneen measure went through the convention without a hitch. Senator Cullom was first elected to the senate in 1882 and has served continuously since that time. His present term will expire March 3, 1913.

NOTABLE HINSDALE HOME BURGLARIZED

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Burglars looted the home of W. E. Muns in Hinsdale of silverware and trinkets valued at $50,000 early today and before leaving set fire to the residence.

Muns was alone in the house and one of the burglars entered his room and threatened to kill him if he made an outcry.

The home, which was badly damaged, was one of the show places at Hinsdale and was filled with curios collected from all arts of the world.

STRIKERS AGREE TO SETTLEMENT

Thursday Night Meeting Results in Calling Off of Woodworkers' Trouble

NEEDS INTERNATIONAL O. K.

John Rae Says Men Have No Authority After Strike Has Been Called

At a meeting held Thursday night the striking woodworkers in La Crosse decided to call off the strike and go back to work according to officers of the local union who yesterday applied for their old positions in the factories affected by the strike.

Joe Rae, local organizer of the unions, today declared that while the men had decided to go back to work they have no authority to call off a strike after it had once been called.

"The authority," said Mr. Rae, this morning, "rests with the international board and the strike is still on until it sanctions the calling off of the strike."

Mr. Rae this morning said that he was not at the meeting Thursday night when the strike was settled but that he had been informed that the men would return to work, having decided to do so after the conference Thursday night.

Mr. Will Ott, manager of Segelke-Kohlhaus company, one of the larger woodworking establishments affected by the walkout this morning said that at least 60 of the strikers would be put back to work at once and that the remaining few would be given employment as soon as the business of the plant was in shape to make it advisable.

Both the Hackner plant and the Segelke-Kohlhaus company have made no active campaign for new business while the strike was in progress but it is expected that both companies will be running with their full quota of men within a very short time.

FRUIT VENDER'S WIFE MURDERED

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 24.—With her throat slashed from ear to ear, and apparently in a dying condition, Mrs. Walter Rahaley, the wife of a fruit vender, was found in the rear of her home today. A rusty razor lay near the woman. She will die.

According to the police neighbors of the woman heard her scream, and rushing to the scene she was found dying with her throat terribly slashed. The husband was arrested shortly after and charged with the murder. It is said the couple had quarreled.

WISCONSIN NEWS

COUSIN OF "BOB"
OUT FOR CONGRESS

Nominated to Succeed Miles Poindexter in the State of Washington

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 24.—When the sixty-second congress meets a year hence at Washington, the name "La Follette" in all probability will be heard in the roll calls of both houses. William L. La Follette has been nominated for congress in the Third district of the state of Washington by the republicans to succeed Miles Poindexter, who received the nomination for United States senator. Mr. La Follette's election is practically equivalent to election. The district is the territory lying east of the Cascade mountains.

The prospective new congressman is a first cousin of Senator R. M. La Follette of Wisconsin, and his parents were among the pioneer settlers in Primrose, Dane county, where several of their children were born, among them Charles La Follette, traveling passenger agent for the Big Four railroad. They came in the early '50's, but after some years in Primrose the family returned to Thornton, Ind., where William was born.

As his father before him, he too became a pioneer, going to Washington some thirty years ago. He has become a successful fruit grower and his name often is found on fruit shipments coming east. Like his famous Wisconsin cousin, Mr. La Follette has also long been an insurgent, and has represented his county in the state legislature, where he made a record along the line of his campaign slogan: "For the masses and not for the classes."

INTEREST GROWS IN
HOMER FISH STATION

As the fish station at Homer nears completion much interest is being shown by the people of La Crosse. The government is spending a large amount of money in the equipment of this station and the one at Fairport, Iowa, lower down the river.

Prof. Barker of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln has been visiting the Fairport station preparatory to starting some research work on the parasites of both hard and soft shell turtles.

Professor Barker says that the idea of Robert E. Coker in managing the institution at Fairport is a large one. Not only does he aim to make it of great value to the development of the pearl button industry through the propagation of clams but he is also building it up into a place where men from the western universities may go for individual and original research work. There is one such government station at Woods Hole, Mass., devoted largely to salt water investigations. The one at Fairport will be used for researches in both plant and animal life of fresh water bodies.

SET HOUSE AFIRE "TO GET EVEN"

Annie Ohlson Gives This as an Excuse when Questioned by the Court

"We simply set fire to the house to get even with Mrs. Howard," was the statement made by Annie Ohlson, who is charged with arson.

Yesterday afternoon the girl, who is alleged to be implicated with the setting of several fires at the home of Edward C. Howard on French Island, was taken to the court house and was to have been arraigned before Judge Brindley to answer to the charge of arson. The judge had a private talk with the girl in his office and she related a story, which was the cause of adjourning the case for one week until her uncle, who lives at Norway, Mich., may come here to take her with him. It is not the intention of the authorities to prosecute the girl, because of the fact that she has a seven months' old child, which is at present at the county jail with her.

Miss Ohlson told Judge Brindley that Lizzie Dow, the girl, who admitted that she set the last fire, and who has been sentenced to the industrial school, was sent out to borrow an article from a neighbor and later she was accused by Mrs. Howard of lying to her regarding the person from whom she borrowed it.

The Ohlson girl claims that she told the Dow girl that she would get even with Mrs. Howard and together they had planned to "get even." They first turned the cows out of the barn at night, and later they had the horses turned loose and hid the harnesses. She said this did not seem to accomplish their purposes and they decided to set the house afire. The Ohlson girl says she poured the kerosene on the house and the Dow girl set the match to it. She also declares that she was the first one to pour water on it when she saw that the fire was spreading.

Judge Brindley says it is a most peculiar case and it has been decided by the court and the district attorney to write the Ohlson girl's uncle at Norway, Mich., and ask him to come and take care of the girl. In the meantime the girl will be confined to the county jail.

carry off the championship."

Thus spoke "Connie" Mack, leader of the Philadelphia Athletics here today, while discussing the world's series with the Cubs. It was the first definite commitment of the tactician manager. Mack refused to state what his opinion of the probable outcome of the battle would be merely declaring that he was "always confident." The Philadelphia boss declared he is going to do all in his power to have the opening game staged in his own park as he figures that would give him an edge over his Chicago rivals.

If the White Sox yard is not crowded to overflowing this afternoon, many local "dopesters" miss their guess. The Athletics be on exhibition in a double mi-

THE VALUE OF CONFIDENCE

The small pumps are working.
Notwithstanding City Engineer Bradish's recent opinion that to attempt their temporary use, in order to give the city clear water through the twenty-four inch intake until some arrangement could be made to get clear water for the large pump, would cause some mysterious disaster, the great feat has been accomplished.

The work of relaying the thirty inch intake is progressing, that method having been adopted as a sufficient solution of the latest water problem. There is also in progress a general cleaning up at the city pumping station.

Leroy M. Bell, chief engineer of the Listman Milling Co., and formerly city engineer at the pump house, is of the opinion that Frank E. Smith's suggestion relative to connecting the twenty-four inch intake with the big well should be carried out. While Mr. Bell believes it is right to relay the thirty inch pipe in order to guard against shortage of water in any emergency, he urges an arrangement whereby the twenty-four inch pipe can be fed into either well. This, he says, would be comparatively inexpensive and affords some positive advantages of permanency and economy.

One advantage to be gained, in Mr. Bell's opinion, is that the twenty-four inch pipe can be easily kept clear of sand owing to the fact that the water gravitates through it, whereas the thirty inch pipe employs a siphon to reach the well, and therefore cannot be flushed.

Another advantage suggested by Mr. Bell is that a large saving can be made by the use of the twenty-four inch pipe. Its costs considerable money to run the siphon necessary in connection with the large pipe, where a suction pump is used. President Day of the Board of Public Works has estimated this cost at $7 a day. Computed, this amounts to $2,555 a year, an amount at least five times as great as would be the cost of making the proposed connection, and the connection would last as long as the present plant.

At the committee meeting at which action was decided upon in relation to the water matter, two different methods of making this connection were outlined, but it is said they did not have the approval of Engineer Bradish. It is now said that Mayor Sorensen favors the idea of making the connection, but that for some reason Engineer Bradish still opposes it, notwithstanding the declaration of Mr. Smith, Engineer Bell and other practical men that the thing is inexpensive and feasible. If this is ever to be accomplished, it would seem that the board and Mr. Bradish should seize the present opportunity, which is exceptionally good owing to the unusually low stage of water.

Members of the city administration have been learning the danger of flouting public opinion, but perhaps Engineer Bradish has been the least apt in the class of pupils who have been acquiring this sort of education. We suggest that he take seriously the views of some authorities who, though unofficial in character, have the respect and confidence of practical men in the community. In starting the small pumps, and in beginning to relay the big intake, this "outside" advice, so coldly received, has been finally adopted with satisfactory results. Mr. Bradish's service in running the present water works has not been of a character to inspire confidence in the idea, which he himself entertains, that he is the man to build a new water plant, and further recognition of the right of the public to entertain an opinion might do much to restore between the officials and citizens that harmonious relationship and mutual esteem so valuable in the prosecution of important public enterprises.

POINTERS ON THE BALLOT

While the general plan of the Coupon Ballot is that the voter should tear out the candidates' names which he wishes to vote for and place them in the small blue folder, called "The Official Ballot Folder," and put all the rest of the ballot into the larger manila envelope called "The Remainder Envelope," still it is not necessary—in case the voter wishes to vote all of a certain party ticket except one or two names—to tear out the names from his party sheet that he does not want to vote for unless he wishes to vote blank on those offices.

The law says that where a whole party sheet has been placed into the folder all the names on that sheet shall be counted unless the voter shall have enclosed other coupons from other sheets of the ballot, in which case such other coupons from other sheets shall be counted for the names they bear "even if the voter has neglected to tear out the coupons of the same number from his party sheet" with which the loose coupons are found. In this respect the rule governing the counting of the Coupon Ballot is not different from the old mark ballot system in principal.

At first thought it would seem that such a departure from the general plan of the Coupon Ballot would spoil the "check" features which the remainder portions of the ballot is to provide but it does not. A ballot voted as above will be just as easy to count from the remainder part as if all of the names the voter did not want were placed back into the remainder envelope. This will be easily seen if a sample ballot is so prepared.

It will be seen by taking a sample Coupon Ballot and demonstrating with it that the voter will not be able to do anything that will invalidate his ballot as long as he does not use a pencil on it.

Whatever he puts into the small blue folder will be counted as he intended it even if the voter does not complete all the details which may be at first thought necessary.

Many will probably not understand what the die cut spaces which are inside of the "Official Ballot Folder" (the small blue folder) are for if it is not necessary to use them. Some will probably suggest that they might better have been left out. However, "There is a reason," which has to do with the future and need not be explained here. Read all the instructions on the sample ballots as soon as they are out and it will all be clear.

and Wanton Wiles

Song of the Germ Hunters
We have harried the germs, in spite of their squirms, and have slain the same in their lair.
We are after the fly with the baleful eye, and the sneaker must say its prayer;
We have purified wells and have killed off smells that have risen unto the skies, But in spite of our toil, and the water we boil, the public ups and dies.

We have swept the streets, screened the fruits and meats, we have had milk pasteurized;
No bacillus thrives upon human lives which we've properly sterilized;
The insidious bug in the barber's mug we have given a rude surprise.
But what's the use?—some screw is loose—the public ups
and dies.

In the days gone by no "swat the fly" was the usual summer sign;
But it somehow fell men lived as yours and mine;
So something's wrong with the germ fiend's song—what it is we can't surmise;
But the clench remains that, spite of our pains, the public ups
and dies.

Strange Fish
Fred Dumont Smith of Hutchinson tells that he was fishing once in Lake Killarney. The only evidence he found of the finny tribe ever having inhabited that body of water was a rumor circulating about that Brian McCarty, or a man of some such name, had captured a salmon there along about 150 B. C.

But Smith determined to fish anyway, and hired a guide to show him the good places. He fished quite a while and got not even a nibble.
"Gulde, are there any fish in this lake?" declared Smith.
"Lashins iv them," was the prompt reply.
"Any trout?"
"Shure."
"Any bass?"
"Shure."
"Any croppies?"
"Shure."
"Any thermometers?"
"Shure," responded the guide but in a confidential tone. "Shure, lots iv them. If yer wor here in March ye'd see thim flapin' all over the lake."
Smith decided to wait until March.

Slips That Pass in the Night

He saw her sitting in the dark corner, and knew that his chance had come.
Noiseless, he stole up behind her, and almost before she was aware of his presence he had kissed her.
"How dare you?" she shrieked de-lightedly. "You saucy boy, you!"
"Pardon me!" he bluffed readily, stepping out into the light. "I thought you were my sister!"
"You silly idiot!" she snapped, joining him in the open. "I am!"

The CARLETON
CASE
By ELLERY H. CLARK

Lord above, what headlines! Panic —market crash—houses suspended —banks in danger—half dazed, he glanced for a moment around him, as if doubting that it could all be real; then, with a grim feeling that nothing could much matter now, he read steadily the long rows of stock quotations; and ever, as he read downward a column, values dropped downward with him, and never, as he turned to the top of the next, did they rise again. Once more he had to stop, unable to grasp the truth; Akme Mining, nine and a half; Suburban Electric, forty-seven; Fuel, sixty-three; it was all impossible.

Through the slide in the office door a letter fluttered gently to the floor. He rose and picked it up. It inside was Turner's name in the corner.
Very bad; must have ten thousand additional margin at opening tomorrow, sure. As he laid it down, the telephone rang; "Yes," he answered, "Mr. Harris; oh yes, I know; five thousand; yes; thanks; you've got to have it at the opening; all right, good-by." He hung up the receiver, and turned to confront a telegraph boy at his elbow. He hastily signed, and ripped open the envelope. This time the laconic message was from Claxton Brothers.
"Good," he muttered, "only five thousand more. This is fine," and he threw himself back in his office chair, and for a moment or two thought hard. Then he smiled ironically. "Oh, yes," he muttered,
"Henderson got it right, as usual; this is certainly my lucky day;"
then after a moment, he added,
"Well, I suppose it's a case of must now. It's all I can do." He rose, shrugging his shoulders, and thrusting the papers into his pocket, he hurriedly left the office.

CHAPTER V.

A Question of Honor.
"What is left when honour is lost."—Publius Syrus.
Twilight was falling over The Birches, and Edward Carleton, seated alone on the piazza, gazed out over the darkening fields into a world of ever blending shadows and onward creeping dusk. Always, as long as the weather permitted, after his evening meal, he loved to sit there, puffing quietly at his big, old-fashioned, curved pipe, and letting his memory roam back at will through scenes that now lay behind him; or sometimes, more rarely, living in the present, content merely to gaze out on blossoming flowers, and trees in full leaf, to watch the fiery color of the sunset glow and die in the far-off west; to hear from the orchard across the road a robin singing his good-night song; to listen to the thousand wonderful secrets which Nature at the last loves to whisper to those who have lived their lives pure in deed and word, and who have journeyed far onward into the shadow, still kindly and serene, with the wonderful dreams of childhood making beautiful their minds, and in their hearts the faith of little children.

Often Henry Carleton sat there with him, but tonight the old man was alone. An hour ago, a message had come from Henry, saying that he would not be home until the following evening—perhaps not even then—that business matters of importance had arisen, making it necessary that he should remain in town. Characteristic of Henry Carle-ton's unfailing thoughtfulness the message had been, an dit was of his brother, and with a half-sigh, of Jack as well, that Edward Carleton was thinking now, as the darkness pressed closer and closer around the old house that had sheltered for so many generations so many fathers and sons of the Carleton blood.

From the entrance to the gravel walk, the sound of footsteps smote briskly on his ear and he glanced up to see a tall and familiar figure coming up the path. A moment later and Jack had hastily mounted the steps, scarcely seeming to heed his father's greeting, and speaking at once, in a voice strangely unlike his own:
"Father," he said, "where's Henry?"
The old man gazed at him in surprise. "He's not at home, Jack," he answered, and then, with a momentary foreboding, "What is it, my boy?
Nothing wrong?"

Jack laughed a little grimly. "No nothing like that," he answered.
"I'm in trouble, that's all. I've stayed too long in a falling market, and got caught. If I can't get help from Henry I guess I'm done." In the darkness Edward Carleton reached out his hand, and laid it on his son's shoulder. "My dear boy," he said, "I'm sorry. If only Henry has the money available. But I don't know. These must be terrible times for every one. Tell him if there's any way he can use what he holds for me, that I asked him to do so. I'm so sorry, Jack—so sorry."

feeling, Jack took his father's hand in both his own. "Thank you, father," he said, "I know you are.
It's all my own fault, of course. I don't deserve any help. But it's all come so suddenly. I never thought
—"

He broke off abruptly, then spoke again. "Well, I suppose I must get back to town, I haven't much time.
I never dreamed of not finding Henry here. I'm sorry I can't stay.
Good night, father," and he was gone.

It was nearly two hours later when he hastened down Adams Street toward the Harmon Building, where high overhead in many a window, lights ordinarily extinguished by five or six o'clock, were still burning brightly; some of them, indeed, destined to gleam and flicker thruout that long, anxious summer's night, and only to pale at last as the first faint streaks of dawn struck through the shades on the men who planned and toiled within, working feverishly, with gray, unshaven faces, and weary, bloodshot, deep-sunk eyes.

Getting out of the elevator at the fourth floor, Jack hastily made his way into Henry Carleton's offices.
Once there, however, although his name was quickly sent in, he was compelled to wait for a full half hour in the outer corridor, until at length a bell rang sharply, and a tired looking clerk, with a nod of his head toward the inner office, signified that the audience was granted. With a curious sense of old-time familiarity, Jack entered the big square room which he had visited last, now upward of three years ago, and closed the door behind him.

Over by the window, Henry Carleton was seated at his desk. He was a man of about fifty, in complexion so dark as to appear almost swarthy, and with coal black hair and beard, here and there just faintly touched with gray. He was tall, much of Jack's height and build, yet constructed upon finer lines, with a sinuous grace of movement that had about it something almost feline.
His face was rather long, the forehead and cheek-bones high, the eyes were black and piercing, and the lips of the strong, well-chiseled mouth noticeably full and red. Altogether, an interesting face, a fitting index to the dual personality of the man—Henry Carleton the shrewd and able leader in the business world, and Henry Carleton the musician and man of letters—the artist to his finger-tips.

As Jack entered, he glanced pp pleasantly enough, though far back in his eyes there lurked a hidden gleam of some emotion difficult to fathom. "Why, hello, Jack," he said, "I'm surprised to see you. What brings you here? Sit down." He motioned toward a chair.
Jack Carleton came forward into the room, standing a little awkwardly with his hand on the back of the proffered seat. "It's the market, Henry," he said briefly. "I've got caught. I have to raise twenty thousand by the opening tomorrow or go under. I've just come from home; I thought I'd find you there.
I'll tell you the truth. I hate like hell to come to you, and you know it, but I've got to get the money somehow, and if you can help me, I wish to Heaven you would."

Henry Carleton gazed at him med-itatively.

"Better sit down," he said curtly, and this time Jack accepted the invitation. There was a short silence.
Then Henry Carleton drew a tiny notebook from his pocket, and with pencil poised, "Now let's have it," he said.

Jack Carleton frowned. It was easy enough to see that the confession of his sins was little less than torture to him. "Well," he began, a trifle defiantly, "it's like this. I've got in a trifle deeper than I meant to when I started. I've fifteen hundred shares of Suburban Electric, and seven hundred Akme Mining, and five hundred Fuel, and a little other stuff besides. My heaviest account's with Turner and Driver; then I've got an account with Harris and Wheeler, and another with Claxton Brothers; altogether—"

Piece by piece the whole story came out. Henry Carleton wrote, figured, meditated; asked a question here, another there; meditated again.
Finally he seemed to make up his mind. He spoke with deliberation, weighing his words. "No one can tell," he said, "what the next twenty-four hours are going to bring. But what you ought to do is clear. You've got to lighten up, to start with.

As if the words brought him meas-ureless comfort, Jack drew a long breath of relief. "You think, then," he asked timidly, "you can fix it somehow? You think you can get me by?"

Henry Carleton did not at once reply, and when he finally spoke, it was but to answer Jack's question with another. "Have you done everything you can yourself?" he queried.
"Where else have you tried?"
Jack gave a short mirthless laugh.
"Where haven't I tried?" he retorted. "I've tackled about every friend and acquaintance I've got in the world. I began four days ago. And I've had the same identical comeback from every one of them. They're sorry, but they have to look out for themselves first. And security. They all talk about that. I never knew before that security cut such a lot of ice with people. But it does."

Don't tell your troubles; when a man tells his troubles, people say in private: "He didn't get half what he deserved."

There are people who listen only to the prosecution, and others who are able to hear only the defense.

PUGET SOUND TON MILEAGE IS LOWER

The Puget Sound extension of the Milwaukee road, which was built for long haul business, has failed to bring up the average ton mileage of the system, according to the statistical analysis of the Wall Street Journal, which publication has found that the average haul of the Milwaukee is shorter than ever. That this is really a favorable indication is shown by the statement, saying that notwithstanding the long distance tonnage that now moves over the Milwaukee from Seattle eastward to Minneapolis and Chicago, the business between short haul points in thickly settled eastern country in Minnesota and Wisconsin has increased to such an extent that the average has been kept down.

And Unaware of Approach of Locomotive Marion

Bright Steps Onto Track

Marion Bright, age 8 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Bright, 713 Mill street, was struck by the Milwaukee train No. 11 and fatally injured at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon near the Berlin street crossing. He died within a few minutes after the accident.

The lad was in the middle of the yards with several other boys of his own age and seeing a switch engine going in the direction of his home, jumped onto the footboard. The engine was traveling at a slow rate of speed, as No. 11 was going through the yards. Upon arriving at Berlin street the boy jumped off directly in front of the incoming train and was tossed ahead by the pilot and rolled under the wheels of the engine. He was dragged about a block before the train could be brought to a standstill, and was taken from under the train in a crushed and mangled condition.

He was taken to the baggage room and a surgeon called, but he expired a few minutes later without having gained consciousness.

The "Nelson Plan" of easy payments makes the purchase of a Stewart a very simple matter. Do you know of any good reason why you should buy an inferior stove at a high price when you can get a Stewart at a reasonable figure. Stewarts are made in various sizes and made to burn hard or soft coal. The large radiating surface and perfect flue construction give a maximum of heat with a minimum of fuel. You will notice the saving when you pay your coal bill.

NEARLY DIES ON LAKE MICHIGAN

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Nearly dead from exposure after battling with the waves of Lake Michigan since Thursday, Captain W. B. Birch, an aged sailor, was rescued today by life saving crews.
Birch has for many years been running a 35 foot sloop single-handed

Thursday soon after leaving Cheboygan, his sloop became disabled and he drifted helplessly about until exhausted by cold and loss of sleep, his sloop was struck by a freight boat. The crew of the freighter did not see anybody aboard the sloop and reported it to the life saving station as a derelict.
This resulted in his rescue. Birch was unconscious when picked up but when revived gamely declared he would proceed to Michigan City with his cargo as soon as his boat was re-

CAPTAIN SCHECKEL DIES AT EAU CLAIRE

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Sept. 24.— Capt. Philip Schackel died here yesterday, aged 73. He was one of the old river men who navigated from the Mississippi to the headwaters when navigation was opened on Chippewa river.
Capt. Schackel began his river career by rafting for the lumber concern of Carson & Eaton, near this city. He built the boat, Golden Star, and later the Chippewa. Few understood navigation better than Schackel.
He was the originator of the "Jimmy hole," which proved useful in manipulating rafts.

We might be less suspicious of others if we didn't know ourselves so well.

NYE-FAVILLE WEDDING

The following article taken from a Beloit paper will be of interest to La Crosse people on account of the prominence of the groom and his family. Mr. Faville spent his youngest days in this city and has many friends here.

"The Nye-Faville nuptials, which were solemnized last evening were one of the brilliant social functions of the early autumn.

"In the presence of seventy invited guests, Miss Alice Nye, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. T. Nye, and Mr. Henry Conant Faville of La Crosse were united in holy wedlock at the home of the bride's parents, 643 Park avenue, at the unique hour of 6:30 o'clock.

"The Rev. Wilfrid A. Rowell, pastor of the First Congregational church, officiated and was assisted by the Rev. Henry Faville of La Crosse, father of the groom. The pretty ring service was used.

"The music of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by the Keff and Hatch orchestra of Janesville, the bridal couple took their place under a bower in the parlors, arranged with maiden hair and asparagus ferns. This was lighted by electric light in the midst of the bower.
During the service the rooms were lighted only by the glow of many candles placed about the rooms and in this shimmering light as the day was drawing to a close, the words were spoken which made them man and wife.

"The couple was attended by Miss Laura Nye as maid of honor and Mr.
Percy Bentley of La Crosse as best man. The bride was attired in white satin marquisette and hand embroidered and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and ferns. The maid of honor wore a dress of yellow silk with pearl trimmings and carried yellow chrysanthemums.

"The house decorations were elaborately designed and served to make the interior in harmony with the splendor of the occasion. The guests on entering ascended the stairs in the midst of a bank of autumn foliage and in the hall were bouquets of golden rod and brown-eyed su-suns. These were likewise used in the adornment of the parlor and other rooms of the home with the addition of clusters of white asters and maiden hair ferns.

"A four course dinner was served after the wedding ceremony. In the dining room was the suggestion of autumn in banks of autumn foliage. Here summer chrysanthemums, golden rod and maiden hair ferns were used in great profusion.
Each place at the table was lighted by an individual candle.

"The dinner over, the remainder of the evening was taken up in dancing and in a pleasant social time, the Keff and Hatch orchestra furnishing the music.

"Mr. and Mrs. Faville will spend their honeymoon at Michilinda, Mich., taking a late train last evening for Chicago. Their announcement cards state that they will be at home to their friends after December 1 at 6126 Ellis avenue, Chicago.
Mr. Faville is engaged in the real estate business, being connected with the Irvington Land company, having business interests in Indiana.

"The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Faville accompanied their congratulations and best wishes with many beautiful and handsome gifts of silverware, rich cut glass and other pleasant remembrances.

"Among the out of town guests was the aged father of the groom's mother, Mr. Conant of La Crosse, who is 91 years of age. Others were,
Rev. and Mrs. Henry Faville of La Crosse, parents of the groom; Mr.
E. G. Smith and son Stanton of Rockford; Miss Mattie Kinnie, Rockford; Mrs. W. M. Dildine of Miss Florence Dildine of Freeport;

ADJOURN MEETING UNTIL THURSDAY

Democratic County Committee to Wait Until the Return of Chairman Doherty

The democratic county committee, which was called together at 10 o'clock this morning in the small council chambers of the city hall, adjourned until next Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, because of the absence from the city of County Chairman John F. Doherty. About fifteen members of the committee were present when the meeting was called to order by Alderman W. W. Collins, who announced that owing to the fact that Chairman Doherty was called out of the city, it would be wise to adjourn the meeting until some time next week.

Alderman Frank G. Roth believed that the committee ought to proceed with its work, because, he said, there were several attorneys present, who could help the committee in transacting its business in a legal manner. Mr. Skaar, however, believed that it would be wise to wait until the return of the chairman, and thereupon adjournment was taken. C. W. Hunt acted as temporary secretary of the meeting.

RATIFICATION A GREAT SUCCESS

his fellow townsmen was recognized as appreciation from the heart of the man. In well chosen words he felicitated his hearers upon a victory which he recognized as theirs, not his, and he called attention to the fact that but half the battle had been won. With exceptional discrimination he discussed the problem of re-uniting and re-harmonizing the party, and when he had finished he left those who heard him for the first time impressed with the thought that there was a man who in the ripe great in the councils of the nation, another Johnson with all the tact and cleverness and force of the departed governor and, perhaps, without that too keen interest in the rights of vested capital which led the great statesman to veto the tonnage tax. There were cheers and some tears, when Sydney Anderson finished speaking, and then everybody made a race for the lunch to hide their emotions in a display of appetite.

After the speeches were concluded a selection by the band was followed by refreshments served by the ladies of Lanesboro, a repast that testified to the culinary proficiency of the women. After that there were sight seeing automobile rides about the city.

Evening Meeting
In the evening a mass meeting was held in the town hall and there was further speechmaking and no end of enthusiasm for the candidate.

One of the interesting things to visitors was the office of Sydney Anderson. It is a two room affair on the ground floor, the rear room having been employed as headquarters of the Anderson campaign committee. A striking illustration of the power of public sentiment is afforded by the fact that from these modest little apartments there went forth the call to conflict in which a strong young man with no wealth but personal cleanliness and mental attainment defeated the Goliath of machine politics, the man who has boasted that he occupied the third position of importance in the United States government, the man who had entrenched himself behind bulwarks of political patronage affording fortification for his forces in every town and precinct in the district, the man for whom a president of the United States had crossed the continent and made a great speech urging his re-election, the supposedly impregnable James A. Tawney.

Press Gets Into Line

Examination of the press of Minnesota, this week's issue of which had arrived at the desk of Ole Levang, Mr. Anderson's manager, showed that three-fourths of the Tawney newspapers had swung into line for Anderson. The notable exceptions are the Preston Times, published by Sam Langum, postmaster of the house of representatives through Tawney's influence, and the biggest Tawney gun in the district; and the Hokah Chief, published by W. S. Moe, a postmaster by grace of Tawney patronage.

The Times regrets that in "getting" Tawney the insurgents "wiped off the political map." The paper is rather savage in its criticism of Mr. Anderson, and contains no intimation that its attitude may soften toward the new candidate.

The Chief heads its story of the election in this way:

"Shame! First District Decides to be Nothing." The Chief also contains a card of thanks to "The La Crosse Tribune, Schweizer and all the rest of the democrats."

The Houston Signal and the Caledonia Journal are noncommittal, but having been steadfastly republican are expected to get in line for Anderson. The Signal prints the republican ticket including the name of Anderson for congress.

Both the Foss papers, the Rushford Star-Republican and the Lanesboro Leader, which have been strong Tawney advocates, have come out emphatically and squarely for Anderson, as have also a majority of the other papers outside of Houston county. The Wykoff Enterprise devoted its editorial page to discussions of such topics as the coal shortage and the early winter, and its editor facetiously observes that the citizens of Lanesboro are busy moving back the bluffs to make room for Ole Levang since his expansion over the result of the primary. It is all done in good humor and there is in it no suggestion of opposition to Anderson.

ARE YOU TAGGED? IF NOT, WHY NOT?

the establishment and everyone was quickly placed on the list of contributors. The same was done at other hotels. The factories will all be visited before evening.

Dozens of automobiles, decorated with "tag day" banners are engaged in distributing supplies to the workers. It is expected that before evening at least 500 persons will be actively engaged in tagging people.

At this time, of course, it is impossible to make an estimate of the amount of money that will be raised, but from the manner in which the public is taking to the idea it is expected that a sufficient amount will be contributed to enable the humane society to make a start along the line of employing a visiting nurse for the care of the sick in the poor families in La Crosse.

On the North Side

The young ladies of North La Crosse have gone into the work of tagging with a vim that is sure to bring success. It is impossible to step outside without returning with a tag. It is no uncommon sight to see people completely covered with red cardboard, and everything on wheels, from the wagons of the fire department to the engines of the railroads are decorated with the red tag day pennants. The squad stationed at the Milwaukee depot are boarding the trains and tagging everybody on board. The morning taggers were relieved at 12:30 by a new crew which will work until 6:30.

DEWEY TO OPEN SUNDAY SCHOOL

Supt. D. C. Dewey of the City Mission will open a Sunday school tomorrow at 3 p. m. and will endeavor this winter to get children who don't attend any Sunday school to attend at the Mission. He wishes the co-operation of Christian workers in this work. Mr. Dewey also would like some children's clothing to help clothe those that are in need.

STOP WORK ON DOUBLE TRACK

Work on the Milwaukee double tracks east of La Crosse which the heavy traffic caused by the coast extension has made necessary will be stopped at Bangor this fall and will be completed next summer.

It has also been announced that the Milwaukee road will stand all expense of a new highway through the village of Bangor north of their tracks to decrease the danger of the present crossings.

years ago, but in that comparatively brief period she has climbed right up to the top of the ladder. Altho Miss Burke is an American girl—she was born at Washington, D. C. in 1886—she never acted in this country until Mr. Frohman brought her from London in 1907 to be John Drew's leading woman in "My Wife." The following season he advanced her to stellar rank, presenting her in "Love Watches." This season she is playing in "Mrs. Dot," a comedy by W. Somerset Maugham, and she will be seen in it at the La Crosse theater Monday, Sept. 26. Miss Burke, like Miss Adams and Miss Barrymore, is said to be the possessor of a wonderfully charming personality—a personality that literally enthralled her audience—and it is that characteristic that has pushed her so quickly to the front. In "Mrs. Dot," too, it is said, she reveals a talent for comedy of an unusually high order. Miss Burke has often been compared to Lotta, an actress whom the older generation of theater goers still remember with pleasure and loving admiration. Lotta herself, who is living in retirement in New York, went to see one of Miss Burke's performances in New York last winter. "She looks exactly as I did," said the old actress afterward. "She has the same hair, the same figure and the same little mannerisms that I had and," she added, naively, "isn't she simply the prettiest thing you ever saw? I love her—she is so winsome and so dainty. And her work, too, is perfection." Sale of seats begins today.

the nobility and the times developed more strange characters than perhaps any other epoch in the country's history. As a young Irish artist,

Oct. 7, under the direction of Clara Bowen Shepard. Hundreds of thousands of people have fallen under the sway of this wonderful woman and smile with delight whenever her name is mentioned. These musical patrons—of both the classes and the masses and who dwell in every portion of the civilized world—never miss hearing Schumann-Heink sing whenever opportunity offers. A few days ago, the manager of the St. Paul Symphony Orchestra noticed that Mme. Schumann-Heink was to appear in La Crosse and remarked: "Schumann-Heink is unquestionably the greatest artist. No other singer has ever been able to hold the public as she has. Last winter, I was in California when she appeared in Los Angeles giving her fourth appearance within fifteen days and her receipts were $4,220 and several hundred people were turned away at the door. Only three weeks ago I was with her in a little Iowa city of 6,000 people. Some of the enterprising citizens raised enough money to bring her there to the summer Chautauqua and she drew 3,000 admissions, above the regular sale of season tickets. I think La Crosse is particularly fortunate in getting one of her dates because she is most sought after by the American people. She has promised to come to St. Paul next spring and sing "Carmen" in concert form. This will be her first appearance in this role in this country, though she did appear in it when a girl in the old country. It is certainly a privilege that is being extended by Mrs. Shepard in bringing this great artist to La Crosse at a smaller price of admission than is charged in St. Paul and other cities." The following operatic and concert program will be given by the great artist in La Crosse: 1. Recitative and Aria "Vittoria" from the opera "Titus," Mozart 2. Aria from "Samson and Delilah" by Saint-Saens 3. Waltraute, scene from Goetterdämmerung, Richard Wagner (c) Aria, "Ah mon fils," from the opera "Le Prophete" Meyerbeer 3. Die Allmacht Schubert 4. Frühlingsfahrt Schumann fighting for the right of a young girl, Chauncey Olcott gives an impersonation of one of the most fascinating of types. In this line of character work, he stands alone. His rare personality, wonderful musician talent and intelligent analysis of such roles make him unique as an actor and easily the best in his line in our day.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN OPENS TOMORROW

Perhaps there has never been a more pleasing production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" as that which Mr. Martin will offer amusement lovers at the La Crosse theater tomorrow with matinee at 2:30. The scenes which are large enough to fill the most spacious stage, could not easily be improved. Those representing Ohio river in winter, the Rocky pass in which George Harris protects his family, the St. Claire plantation, the levee at New Orleans, the cotton fields in full bloom and "The Celestial City" are all most notable efforts. Each picture the reality as paint and canvass will permit and the stage perspective is so deep that the effect is exceptionally pleasing. The company is also worthy of its environment. Frank Leo, the eminent minstrel star, offers an excellent study of Uncle Tom.

Years of experience and endeavor have enabled this Music House to gather on its floors the world's most famous makes of Pianos. Here you will find a Piano suited to every need of the lover of the best and most artistic in the piano world. Our aim during the past 15 years has been to secure the best piano on the market for the money our customer intends to expend. Below we give an idea of the many different pianos we carry, each one of which we believe covers its respective field of usefulness to the best possible advantage and gives the buyer the greatest value for the money expended.

The grand piano—the noblest production of all—represents the highest achievement in the piano-maker's art. Its proper construction requires scientific knowledge and skill of an exceptional order, long experience and the most favorable manufacturing facilities. Comparatively few American or European makers have succeeded in producing grand pianos equal to the exacting demands of the great artists or worthy to be heard in the concert-room. The Weber Concert, Parlor, and Small Grands, however, embody many special points of construction and have long stood highest in the estimation of many of the world's greatest musical authorities. Of these, the smallest and the one most recently introduced deserves special mention. Being but five feet, four inches long, it is available for use in small rooms where heretofore only an upright could be accommodated, while for volume and quality of tone it stands unrivaled. Today it is conceded that American pianofortes have no superior. The Weber Piano has not only held a distinctive place in its own country, but is a world standard. It has no peer in sympathetic, resonant, carrying tone, in responsive action, in reserve power, in solidity and honesty of workmanship, in correct construction in enduring quality.

THE LATEST STYLES IN KNITTING AND CROCHETING

A New Crocheted Shawl—Quickly and Easily made.

The vogue of shawls started last year and has been growing ever since. Now a shawl of some kind is a necessary article of every woman's wardrobe. Here is one of the latest designs. The open work diamond design which shows strongly in the center is repeated smaller and smaller in the border. Made of Fleisher's Shetland Floss—an ideal yarn for shawls—light, fluffy, warm.

In a design so open it is absolutely necessary to use a yarn that will keep its elasticity. This Fleisher's Shetland Floss will do.

Full directions for making this and many other new and staple articles may be found in the new (eighth) edition of Fleisher's Knitting and Crocheting Manual, an invaluable handbook for beginner and expert. Contains a complete course of instruction in the various stitches and is the only authoritative guide to fashion in articles made of yarns.

Grain Letter

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—More uneasiness was shown in today's market than for several days. Week end liquidation by a few longs made a little addition to the ordinary load and there was also some increase in the short selling. The market has not changed notably, however, during the entire week, being largely professional and narrowly local.

Corn made rather a poor showing today, the morning weather map showing rain had been general over the corn belt west of Ohio in the last 24 hours, while later forecasts and private advices showed that weather was clearing, generally with no prospects of frost.

Oats weakened with the other grains. Week end liquidation and a little more courageous short selling than usual from scattered sources brought no important pressure. Provision trade was limited.

THE WEEK FINANCIAL

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The weekly bank statement as issued today shows the following changes:

Reserve on all deposits, decrease, $4,638,500.

Reserve on deposits other than U. S. decrease, $4,855,525.

Loans, increase, $7,818,900.

Specie, decrease, $3,434,240.

Legal tenders, decrease, $796,800.

Deposits, increase, $1,628,800.

Circulation, increase, $7,419,000.

Total loans, $1,281,680,000.

The surplus is $19,233,200 as compared with $10,319,123 last year and $52,373,600 two years ago.

(Copyright 1910 by New York Evening Post.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—

So far as the cash showing is concerned, the banks made a better statement today than had been generally expected. Instead of a $5,000,000 cash loss, for the week the actual decrease was only $3,419,000. More than this a loan expansion of only $6,800,000 which was less than the increase looked for yesterday as a result of the large advances made during the week to banks at the south and west enabled the clearing house institutions to report a loss of only $3,792,000 in actual surplus.

START WESTERN FOOTBALL TODAY

All Eyes Centered on the Minnesota-Lawrence
Game This Afternoon

STAGG PLEASED WITH TEAM

Smiles at Aptitude Displayed by "Rookies" and Promises Fast Eleven

The eyes of all football enthusiasts this afternoon will be turned on the Lawrence college-university of Minnesota football game which is being played in Minneapolis. This game really rings up the curtain on the western football season and what Lawrence does to the Gopher team will be of interest to big elevens all over the country.

Doc Williams put the Gophers through stiff practice Friday and is determined that the bunch from Appleton shall not cross his goal line but the Lawrence boys are equally confident of scoring. McGovern's booting foot is in fine shape and the way he kicked them between the posts from various angles on the twenty-five yard line in yesterday afternoon's practice shows that Minnesota games, in a great many cases, will depend on McGovern's kicking ability.

Chicago is Fast
With the first scrimmage of the season for the Maroons' schedule for this afternoon and the initial secret workout, a chapter of yesterday, university of Chicago is exulting today that their squad are off to a much better start than they dared hope for during the "bear story" period.

A batch of four of the famous Stagg contrivance was hammered into the players yesterday as the Mentor announced when the session was over and judging from the broad smile that overspread his previously gloomy countenance he was not at all downcast in the way his charges grasped the plays. Of course, the nature of them is a mystery as the doors to Marshall Field were barred yesterday but it is an open secret that the boss expects to spring them on the Indiana game, in which they lock horns on Oct. 8. Reports from other conference elevens indicate that all are moving rapidly considering the early stage of the season.

The eyes of Chicago enthusiasts, however, are centered today on the Minnesota-Lawrence battle.

Practice Saturdays
The general rains throughout the conference section of the country yesterday were welcomed by most of the coaches who were more than glad to have a chance at working their players in the mud. None of the conference elevens will be idle today, the announcement of Stagg that his squad would be put through the grilling on Saturdays as well as during the week throughout the season seeming to have been adopted as a slogan by the rival outfits.

SMITH LACKS A KNOCKOUT PUNCH

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—If "Young Sammy" Smith of Philadelphia, had a punch that matched his science, he would be the coming lightweight champion, in the opinion of the big crowd that saw him trim "Knock-out" Brown, of the National Sporting Club, last night. Smith surprised everyone, Brown most of all, by his wonderful cleverness and gameness and his margin of victory was wide enough to silence the Brown supporters.
Brown's work appeared so crude by the side of Smith's that a pella of lack of form was made in his behalf. During most of the ten rounds he fanned away without doing any damage, Smith's footwork keeping him out of danger. Smith's defense was best in uppercutting and so baffled Brown that he completely lost the combination.

NEW RECORD FOR BASES ON BALLS

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Baseball statisticians believe they have discovered a new season's record in major league baseball in the eighteen bases on balls that were handed out in a seven inning game between Brooklyn and St. Louis. Burke, the Dodger twirler, walked eleven of the Cardinals, while Alberts, another new slab man, permitted seven of the Brooklynites to stroll. Burke's prodigality cost him the game.

STREET CAR MEN IN WRESTLING BOUT

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—"Change cars," shouted the referee in the wrestling match between Paul Martinson and "The Mysterious Conductor," last night when after an hour and forty minutes neither had secured a fall. Both men are employees of the Chicago City Railway, both are upon the mat game. The contest was a grudge match for the championship of the car barns and a $500 sidebet. It is said that many nickels were wagered on the outcome.
